About Us

Our Clients, Industry & Services

Our Industry

EPCglobal was established for engineers, by engineers. We have a detailed knowledge of every sector we work in and our people have all developed a full understanding of their specialization. We only work in the EPC sector. All of our attentions are directed at building and refining the world's largest available source of experienced engineering and construction professionals. Our business is divided by discipline, so each of our teams work exclusively on one sector of the industry. In each area of the industry, we've worked on some of the world's most high profile projects. We're proud of our clients' achievements and of the part we've played in contributing to their success.

Our Clients

EPCglobal's clients are at the very top of their respective fields. In various sectors throughout the industry we are working alongside established giants and fast growing new organizations as they continue to strengthen their workforces for new projects. We don't work with everyone. In a market where skills are in short supply, we choose to focus our efforts on a relatively small number of customers globally.

Expanding Your Options

The international E&C market has been hit by the same skills shortages affecting the whole engineering and construction industry. Our new approach to Candidate Attraction involves a dedicated team of 10 focused entirely on generating new candidate activity through focused advertising campaigns, international exercises and targeted referral projects. We are uniquely placed to increase our clients' options and deliver new talent.
